NEARER FUTURE

HEATHER LANDER

As your eyes adjust to the light's ever changing reflections and refractions, the beautiful geometric constructs take on their own three dimensional life

The Cusp

Opening a discourse about the physicality of the natural world and the virtual horizon we are currently at the edge of, this immersive sonic light sculpture uses projection and sound to create an abstracted, moving image installation.

The work seeks to explore our perception of reality, and how phenomena within illusions and technology can alter this.
